than two centuries of unitodal development, beginning back in the days of the classic school—a period which may be said to represent the time of materialism and philosophy in music. Then is introduced that period of charm and poetry, the romantic school of the nineteenth century, when Schumann, Schubert and Mendelsson, gave to the world their important works.

One of the Acknowledged works of a great master, representing a certain musical period, is performed on every pregram, which in the latter part includes compositions of the modern and futurist school of today. In these latter is disclosed the trend toward tone coloring, painting, fantastic description and vivid in manner the beauties of the four five force.

Many of the quaint, old-fashioned and charming melodies with which we are all familiar have been arranged for the quarter of strings, demonstrating in a delighting at the struments.

Although the program is of the highest artistic essence it is primarily plainned to feach the heart of every one.

Sheba is unsurpassed. As a photoplay presenting a great love story with the utmost power of appeal, it is a dramatic triumph of the screen. William Fox, J. Gordon Edwards, the director, and all others who have had the privilege of taking part in the production of Queen of Sheba, or presenting it to motion picture pairons, are entitled to be congratulated heartly. Queen of Sheba will be remembered long after most of the screen spacials of the scason are forgotten.
